

Dimitris Mitropanos

He was born in Agia Moni .Until he was 29 years old he hadn't met his father . From a young age he worked to help his family . First as waiter and then on the wood cutting ribbons . In 1964 he moved to Athens to live with his uncle on Acharnon Street . Before finishing high school he started working as a singer . At the same time he was organized in the Labrakides Youth as he had already become politicized early on even receiving threats that he would not be allowed to study because of his leftist roots .

He had two marriages , the first with Fani Stamati and the second with Venia Mitropanou , with whom he had two daughters Anastasia and Myrsini. He was also a fan of Olympiakos .

On April 17 2012 , Dimitris Mitropanos was taken to the hospital and transferred to the Intensive Care Unit , where he breathed his last at 11:00 in the morning at the First Cemetery of Athens , while his body was in the chapel of the Agios Lazaros cemetery from early in the morning , where friends , relatives and thousands of people attended for a last farewell.
