

Years ago there was a girl named Lilly. She was raised by her two poor parents in a small house. When she was just six years old, she fell in love with reading and started going daily to the library. Growing up, she didn't have many friends, and at the end of the day she only found comfort in books.

After four years, when she was 10 years old, her parents were found dead in the car. They were working for the FBI and were shot by their enemies. The little girl was left all alone and was sent to an orphanage. She still visited the library every day.

One day she decided to run out of the orphanage and sneak in the library.

She was only living there for one week, when a fire broke out and she was burnt out. After that the library was rebuilt, and a year after it was working regularly again. But rumors say that, ~~to~~ whoever goes to read a book on the kids section, they hear a little girl whisper in their ear.
