

Once upon a time, a girl named Anilisa entered a mysterious library. Looking around she spotted a strange book, she was hypnotized by its peculiar aura. She opened the book and as she was turning the pages, a blinding light surrounded her. Out of the blue she was "absorbed" by the book.

When she came round, she realised that she was in a moving pirate ship, the weather was thunderous and the sea was mild. On top of her was a crazy looking bearded man that was staring at her. << Where am I >> she shouted. << You shall dare enter my ship >> <sup>said the pirate</sup> << Who are you >> the girl asked. << Me? I am the Greatest Captain of all time, Captain Hook! How dare you not know my name >>. The girl stood up and ignored him, Captain Hook was astonished << Who do you think you are young lady? You must get executed now! >>.

As the girl reached the end of the plank, she said smiling to Captain Hook << If I have to die then you have to die with me >> and with that she grabbed him and jumped into the sea.