

Halloween story

On Halloween's day in the small city of Phantomia four teenagers decided to visit the local library. Connor, Nick, Bob and Eli were wandering around the library with a plan in mind. they wanted to summon a ghost.

When they found the perfect spot, a small square room full of books, they decided to start their ritual. In no time the room was ready! A circle made out of candles surrounded them while different symbols were drawn with fake blood by Eli.

That's when it happened! Suddenly a cold breeze filled the room while all the lights abruptly went off, only the candles burning. And then they heard it. A scream so loud it send shivers down one's spine. The group started running, but it was no use. Connor got in an empty room and got out screaming. He looked like he had seen a ghost but the problem was that he had seen a ghost...

Their memory was hazy but one thing was certain they would NEVER step a foot in this library ever again
